CAPTION BANK: The Money Hound

Bankers
went to the dogs on this one

@font-face {
font-family: "Cambria";
}p.MsoNormal, li.MsoNormal, div.MsoNormal { margin: 0in 0in 0.0001pt; font-size: 12pt; font-family: "Times New Roman";
}a:link, span.MsoHyperlink { color: blue; text-decoration: underline; }a:visited, span.MsoHyperlinkFollowed { color: purple;
text-decoration: underline; }div.Section1 { page: Section1; }

Readers of ABA Banking Journal Editors Report last week had the opportunity to provide a caption for this dog with $200 to spend. Who can resist a plaintive pooch? 20 bankers submitted entries. Entrants below participated in a random drawing for a $50 Amazon card, which will be awarded to Rhonda Register of Capital City Bank.

Your
reward is some very funny captions, and few groaners. Sorry, no biscuits.

--Steve Cocheo, executive editor and digital content manager

• • •

1--"Um,
I don't think you're supposed to be printing these in the basement..."

Judy
Brawner, compliance specialist, Country Trust Bank, Bloomington, Ill.

2--"Take
this, blame it on the cat, and we'll act like this never happened."

Paul
J. Jarosz, senior vice president and director of government compliance, Oxford
Bank & Trust, Oak Brook, Ill.

3--"Will
this buy you a new pair of Manolo Blahniks?"

Ann
L. Richardson, avp, Audit/Compliance, CornerBank, N.A., Winfield, Kan.

4--"Who needs a dog that gets their slippers?"

Rhonda
Register, vice-president and co-director, Star University at Capital City Bank, Tallahassee, Fla.

5--"What do you say we forget the little mistake in the hallway?"

Marvin Oesterle

6--"One toaster, please."

Charles Driest, Online Channel Manager, Union First Market Bank, Richmond, Va.

7--"With today's economy, I sure hope two Bennies will get me a Milkbone!"

Jane Wilks, Lexington, SC

8--"Please sir, I want some more."

Megan

Morris, market research analyst, Citizens National Bank, Bluffton, OH

9--"This is what I got when I told my dog, Ira, to rollover."

Luis
J. Maysonet, loan review internal auditor, Savings Institute Bank & Trust
Co., Willimantic, CT

10--"I'll give you $200 to just forget about the visit to the vet."

Marlene
Young, Compliance Officer/Auditor, Peoples State Bank, Plainview, Minn.

11--"Is
this enough for my monthly maintenance fee?"

Eileen
Sullivan, Capital Performance Group, LLC, Washington, DC 20005

12--"You
sure you won't reconsider that neuter thing?"

Nelson
Knowles, Prosperity Bank, AP specialist, St Augustine, Fla.

13--"What do you mean, ‘It will all be applied to late charges?' "

Bill
Bradshaw, president, Citizens State Bank, Princeton, Texas

14--"Look
what I brought home, Mommy! Can I keep it?!?!?"

Lynne
M. Gautreau, compliance manager, Sovereign Bank, Boston, Mass.

15--"Hello,
can you help me? I was going to buy a treat, but I thought that I would open a savings account to save for bag of treats."

Linda
Liers, Internal Audit, Wauchula State Bank, Wauchula, Fla.

16--"Since his puppy dog eyes were beginning to lose their effect, Fido thought of another way to get out of trouble."

Rebecca Svingen, Security State Bank, Fergus Falls, Minn.

17--"You need some ID so you can file a CTR? Will the tag on my collar do?"

Sandra H. Chastain, vice-president, BSA/CRA/Regulatory Compliance, Highland Commercial Bank, Marietta, Ga.

18--"This should be enough to ‘take care of' the cat problem."

Irene Ryan, compliance administrator, High Country Bank, Salida, Colo.

19--"Sooo .... this is my compliance budget for the entire year??"

Sheri Bryan, internal auditor/compliance officer, Town SQUARE Bank

20--"I'll give you $200 to get rid of that cat."

Shirley
A. Donaroma, operations specialist, Edgartown (Mass.) National Bank

21--"Could
I have some filet mignon, please?"

Shirley
A. Donaroma, operations specialist, Edgartown (Mass.) National Bank