Rich and money, they pretty much go together. This week's puzzle looks at many aspects of the rich, being rich, banking the rich, even being fictionally rich. In keeping with the tone of the puzzle, there are many more clues than usual. We can only make you rich in clues, unfortunately. You'll still have to supply the answers.

Fax your completed puzzle, with name, bank, title, and e-mail, by 5 PM, Wednesday, June 29, to 212-633-1165, to participate in a drawing for a game from those made by Bananagrams. Good luck! scocheo@sbpub.com

Rich: Down Clues

DOWN

2. Three little letters that help keep many of us from ever getting rich. It's not "tax," but you're close if you're thinking that way.
3. Perhaps this is a common description for the rich because, being rich, they clearly are on top, and have a big piece of the "pie."
4. Conveyance of the wealthy, the first part of its name describes what it does.
5. Long Island, N.Y., region frequented by the rich and famous.
6. Head of the Beverly Hillbillies clan, he made his millions because "one day when he was a shootin' at some food, up from the ground come a bubbling crude. Oil, that is. Black gold. Texas tea."
7. Financial magazine annually lists the world's billionaires. In 2011 there were 1,140 of them, with "poor" Dmitry Troitsky coming in last. Can't have everything, Dmitry. (Oh, wait, you probably can.)
9. First name was really "Oliver," but Annie called him this instead.
12. Name of a very rich family in the world of Fred Flintstone, you might say this clan was so smart, it was ingenious.
14. Nickname for a rich investor who chooses to back Broadway plays.
15. The Bible speaks of it being easier for one of these to get through the "eye of a needle" than for a rich man to get into Heaven. The creature also has a name used to describe a bank safety and soundness rating, in the plural.
23. A flavor, a condition, or a place where pressure means money.
